Course Description

This course extends the examination, begun in EN 220a, of the English literary tradition as it spreads to North America and other English-speaking nations. English 220b starts with the Romantic period, approximately the 1780s, and carries its analysis of literature to the present day. A continued emphasis will be placed on improving reading and writing skills.

Important Notes

It is the responsibility of all students to become familiar with and adhere to academic policies of as are stated in the Student Handbook and Academic Calendar.

The last day to withdraw from a course voluntarily or to change to audit without academic penalty is March 21, 2014.

Although extensions to coursework in the semester are at the discretion of the instructor, students may not turn in coursework for evaluation after the last day of the scheduled final examination period unless they have received permission for a "Course Extension." Alternative times for final examinations cannot be scheduled without prior approval. Requests for course extensions or alternative examination time must be submitted to the Registrar's Office by the appropriate deadline. Course extensions are only granted for serious issues that arise "due to circumstances beyond the student's control."

We are committed to fostering personal integrity and will not overlook breaches of integrity such as plagiarism and cheating. Plagiarism and cheating can result in a failing grade for an assignment, for the course, or immediate dismissal from the university college. Students are expected to be familiar with the policies in the current Academic Calendar and the Student Handbook that deal with plagiarism, cheating, and the penalties and procedures for dealing with these matters. All cases of academic dishonesty are reported to the Academic Dean.

Electronic Etiquette: Please do not distract or disrupt class with any form of handheld electronic device. Laptop computers should be used only for class purposes. Students should be prepared to take handwritten notes in all classes and will be asked to do so if laptop usage becomes inappropriate.

Students are advised to retain this syllabus for their records.
